

Rob's California Air Resource Disclosure

The California Air Resource Board is a dysfunctional joke. Combine that department with the CA DMV and you get an absolute shit show! Things you need to know about the lot you are bidding on or have purchased.

1. This vehicle is probably non-compliant to operate in CA.
2. If you buy this vehicle and plan to operate it in CA, you may want to rethink that plan.
3. This vehicle may have a citation attached to it by CARB and we have no mechanism available to confirm or not confirm.
4. If this vehicle has a citation attached to it and is blocked in the CA DMV system, it is your problem.
5. You should not buy this truck unless you plan to register it out of state or if you know of a loophole that I am not aware of!
6. The high bidder will be asked to take the DMV paperwork with them, and they will deal with registration and whatever else.

Sorry for venting, but all I'm trying to do is make a living and do what is right. However, this State has implemented regulations that they don't even understand. That makes it pretty hard for a small business to comply! Just to be clear, I think CARB and DMV suck!!

Sign below that you understand the above and that you are responsible for whatever lies ahead regarding registering this vehicle.
